Thursday, February 14. 1723.

London, February 14.
Yesterday arrived a Mail from France, and another from Flanders.

Vienna, February 3.

THE Affair concerning Count Thoring, the Elector of Bavaria's Minister, and Count de Cifuentes, is not yet accommodated, and the latter is forbid the Court till the Elector is satisfied. The Republic of Ragusa has made strong Representations to the Pope, and to the Emperour, of the great Danger they are exposed to from the Turks, who have built a Fort within eight Leagues of the City of Ragusa, have secured two Passes within four Leagues of the City, and also, have caused two Deputies of the Republic to be put under Arrest, because they would not pay before Hand the Tribute which is required by the Grand Signior. Orders are sent to M. Dierling, the Imperial Resident at Constantinople, to give Answer to the Porte, that it is the Emperour's Intention firmly to observe the Treaties of Carlowitz and of Passarowitz. Although the general Advices from Turkey confirm the extraordinary Preparations of War there, this Court seems very tranquil on that Subject. The Muscovite Minister has declared here, that the Czar will name no other Successour to his Dominions than his Grandson the young Czarowitz. It is said, that Count Guiccardi will be sent to Italy, to take Care of the Emperour's Affairs in the Room of Count Alderis, who is lately returned hither from thence, and is to have a more considerable Employment. Italian Comedies are frequently acted for the Entertainment of the Court this Carnival Season; the Weather being frosty, and the Ground covered with Snow, the Nobility diverted themselves some Days past, by riding through the Principal Streets of this City in 12 magnificent Sledges, a Nobleman and a Lady richly dress sitting in each Sledge.

Hambourg, Feb. 12. The last Advices from Sweden say, that the Dyet of the Kingdom was opened the 4th Instant, and that Major-General Lagerberg was chosen Marshal of the States: Those Advices make no Mention of the Arrival of the Holstein Embassy at Stockholm, and that 'twas believed the Affair concerning the Succession to the Crown of Sweden would not be discussed in the Assembly of the States; 'tis added, that M. Bassewitz, the Duke of Holstein's Privy Counsellor, who is expected here with M. Bonde, to look after that Duke's Affairs, continues at Abo in Finland, and that though he should arrive at Stockholm; he will not be admitted to negotiate with any publick Character, his Person being highly disagreeable to the Generality of that Kingdom, for several Reasons: First, Because 'twas he, as 'tis said, who chiefly perswaded the Duke to attach himself to the Czar's Court, projecting there several Schemes, whose Execution have done infinite Damage to the Kingdom. Secondly, That in high Insolency against the legal Titles of his present Majesty of Sweden, he has never stiled him otherwise than Prince of Hesse. Thirdly, That 'twas he who suggested the sending this Embassy, and could put it in the Duke's Head for no other Purpose than to embroil Affairs at the Dyet, to sow Discord, and foment Division. However, 'tis said, that had the Duke sent any other Minister in the Room of the said Bassewitz, 'tis probable he would have had granted to him not only the Title of Royal Highness, but also a yearly Allowance for his better Subsistence.

Versailles, Feb. 19. The 16th being the Day of the King's Majesty, his Majesty, who is in perfect Health, was complimented thereupon by the Duke of Orleans, the Princes and Princesses of the Blood, and Nobility of the Court. The King has granted to the Marquis de la Vrilliere, Minister and Secretary of State, the Survivorship of his Post in Favour of his Son the Count de Saint Florentin, who will be the 10th Secretary of State of his Name; and on the 18th Instant he took the Oath of Fidelity accordingly. The same Day the King assisted at the Mass De Requiem, in the Chapel of the Castle, during which the De Profundis was sung to Musick; and in the Afternoon, his Majesty took the Air at Trianon. Baron Hop, Ambassadour in Ordinary from the States General of the United Provinces, was admitted to a private Audience of the King, and had private Audience afterwards of the Duke Regent.

Paris, Feb. 20. The King is expected to Night to lie at the Tuilleries, every Thing being prepared for that Purpose. His Majesty goes to the Parliament on the 22d Instant, accompanied by the Princes of the Blood, and Nobility of the Court; he stays here the 23d, to receive Congratulations on Occasion of his Majority, and returns to Versailles the 24th. The Duke de Charost has caused his Bed to be removed out of the King's Chamber, his Majesty having now ceased all the Offices of Governor, Sub-Governor and others which subsisted during his Minority. On the 18th, the Cardinal du Bois was suddenly indisposed while he was with the King, and was obliged to go Home, but his Indisposition had no bad Consequences, his Emolument being now much better. A Dispute happened some Days ago between the Bishop of Prejus, the King's late Preceptor, who claimed the Continuance of his Seat at Church near his Majesty's Closet, but the Abbé de Bretueille demanded it as Grand Master of the King's Chapel, and it was adjudged to him accordingly. A Dispute likewise happened between the Captain of the Guards du Corps, and the Marquis de Courtauux Captain of the Band of Swiss; the latter insisted to receive Orders from the King in his Majesty's Bed-Chamber, and also in his Closet; but it was decided, that the Captain of the Guards should receive Orders from his Majesty if in his Closet, and M. de Courtauux in the King's Bed-Chamber. The Benedictines of the Abbé of St. Germain des Pres are about to publish by Subscription an intire Collection in 22 Volumes in Folio of all the Historians of France, each Volume will cost the Subscriber 15 Livres. The Actions are at 1460 Livres; and the Liquidations at 20 Livres.
